

Social and Personal

Mrs. and Mrs. Warner Moore entertained the younger society set at a beautiful ball last evening in the Masonic Temple in honor of Miss Katharine Hagan. Miss Hagan is one of the most prominent debutantes of the winter, and some of the largest affairs given this season have been in her honor. Mr. Moore received with the guest of honor and Mrs. Moore's sister, from Petersburg, and the ballroom was a veritable bower of lovely flowers for the occasion. Miss Hagan wore an imported gown of pale yellow satin, made with an overskirt of bordered white chiffon and trimmed in lavender. She carried an immense bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Decorations were in pink roses and palms. A drapery of Southern amilax, hung with pink flowers, covered the balcony and was gathered in the center to a big Japanese parasol. Palms and big Japanese parasols were used on the stage, and boys were arranged at intervals around the ballroom. In the foyer, where Miss Moore served punch, tables decorated with pink flowers and divans were arranged. A hamper, studded with flowers, and a big parasol were used across one end of the foyer, and the lights were shaded in pink. Big baskets of Killarney

OVERWORK CAUSE OF COLLAPSE

Lady in Whites Creek Has Sad Experience, But Is Now Doing Very Well.

Whites Creek, W. Va.—Mrs. S. P. Ferguson, of this place, says: "I suffered from womanly troubles for years. The doctor said that overwork brought my trouble on. I had such dragging pains, and suffered very badly with sick headache and dizzy spells. I was very nervous at times.

Before I commenced to take Cardui I would often wake up in the middle of the night with pains all over me, till I could hardly stand it, and could not sleep. In all I have taken five bottles of Cardui, and I am so much better.

Cardui is fine. It has helped me very much. I can highly recommend the medicine, for I have tried it. I wish every suffering woman would take Cardui, the woman's tonic."

Cardui has a specific, curative effect on the womanly constitution, and thus assists nature to restore health, by providing strength where it is most needed.

For more than half a century nothing has been found to take the place of Cardui for preventing unnecessary pains and misery from womanly troubles.

You know that Cardui will help you, because it has helped more than a million weak, sick, miserable women.

It is certainly worth trying. Do it today. At the nearest drug store.

INSTALL OFFICERS OF GRAND LODGE

North Carolina Masons End Annual Session at Raleigh.

NEW CHARTERS BY STATE

Falling Off in Number of New Corporations for 1911, as Compared With 1910.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Raleigh, N. C., January 11.—The North Carolina Grand Lodge of Masons had a busy session to-day rounding up the work of the 1912 session, the installation of the new officers being the principal feature. The officers are: W. B. McKoy, grand master; F. M. Winchester, deputy grand master; J. T. Alderman, senior grand warden; F. P. Hoberman, Jr., junior grand warden; Leo D. Harritt, grand treasurer; John C. Drewry, grand secretary. Appointive officers: Rev. C. E. Madray, grand chaplain; R. F. Edwards, grand lecturer; A. B. Andrews, Jr., senior grand deacon; Claude S. Norrict, grand marshal; Henry A. Grady, grand sword bearer; James C. Brasswell, grand pursuivant; Charles N. Selzer and R. C. Cantwell, grand stewards; R. T. Gowdy, grand auditor; Marshall Delaney, grand historian.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. V. Joyner and superintendent of Public High Schools N. W. Walker have gone to Greenville, where they will attend the sessions of the Southern District Conferences of the High School Principals and the County Superintendents of Public Schools in session there.

Captain A. J. Dougherty, United States Army, detailed for special work with the North Carolina National Guard, has gone to Asheville, Hickory, and Statesville, for conferences with the military officers of each place for the improvement of the service. He goes to give special instructions in military schools of instruction.

A charter was issued to-day for The Farmers' Co-Operative Exchange Company, Lexington, capital $100,000 authorized and $50,000 subscribed by P. R. Proctor and others of Lexington, Thomasville and High Point sections, there being fifty or more incorporators. The North Pole Ice Cream Freezer Company, of Charlotte, also has incorporated with $50,000 capital authorized and $5,000 subscribed by C. P. Hudson, O. W. Williams and others. The Abbott Motor Car Company, of Charlotte, has changed its name to The American Motor Car Company, Julian L. Lummas being president.

During the year ending December 31, there were issued in this State only 276 charters for new corporations, compared with 1,058 issued for the year previous. It is believed by many that the increasing regulations, with the national tax and multiplicity of reports imposed on the corporations, is having the effect of checking the tendency toward incorporation as a departure from the old practice of individual and copartnership relations.

Candidates in Accord.

Governor Kitchen issued a statement to-day to the effect that he and Senator Simmons have agreed upon the question of having the State Democratic Executive Committee call and regulate the United States senatorial primary which is to be held in the fall.

Chief Justice Walter Clark and Ex-Governor Schreiner E. Aycock favor the primary, but advocate leaving the matter with the State convention. Governor Kitchen says he will join with other candidates in keeping expenses to the minimum.

IN THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT
By ROY K. MOULTON.

The Amateur Air-shipper, Lycurgus built an aeroplane. And then he tried with might and main. To make her fly. But hope to die. He found his efforts in vain.

He smashed a corner and a barn. But said he didn't give a darn. He turned her loose. And took abuse. And simply muttered "Live and Farn."

He killed a cow and then a pig. And littered up a farmer's rig. Was not afraid. Or e'en dismayed. And said he didn't care a fig.

He barked around for seven years. His relatives shed bitter tears. He muttered: "I will make her fly. Doggody! her warnings and their fears."

One fateful day the air was still; He left the apex of a hill. By gum, she flew. And gave him a triumphant thrill.

He broke the steering gear, by heck! The motor soon became a wreck. With nothing more. To break in store. Lycurgus fell and broke his neck.

The neighbors all fled slowly by. And gazed upon him with a sigh. But still they knew. Though he was through. He died content. He'd made her fly.

The waitress in the country hotel gracefully noted her blond pompadour in place, set a glass of water down in front of the guest and remarked casually and indifferently as though it didn't really matter whether she announced it or not.

NEW DESTROYER TAKES TO WATER

The Fanning Launched at Newport News With Informal Ceremonies.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Newport News, Va., January 11.—Another torpedo boat destroyer, the Fanning, for the United States Navy was launched at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company this afternoon before a small party of invited guests.

The event was entirely informal, and the yard was not thrown open to the public.

As the long, thin hull began the journey down the ways to the waters of James River, Mrs. Kenneth McAlpine, wife of Captain McAlpine, U. S. N., inspector of work at the shipyard, smashed the traditional bottle of champagne across the prow of the vessel and gave her name. Immediately after the launching, an electrical luncheon was tendered by the builders at the Warwick Hotel in honor of the sponsor.

The Fanning is the fourth destroyer to be built here for the navy and is the very latest word in destroyers. She is 235 feet long, twenty-six feet four and one-half inches broad and will have a load draft of eight feet, four inches. The vessel will be driven by three propellers, run by turbine engines of the Parsons' type. She will be equipped with all burning boilers and no stokers will be necessary. The new vessel is named after Nathaniel Fanning, who served with distinction during the Revolution.

Besides six rapid-fire guns for self-protection, the destroyer will have four torpedo tubes and a capacity of twelve torpedoes. Her designed speed is twenty-nine and one-half knots, but the builders expect that she will make from a third to a thirty-two knots, as did her sisterships, the Roe, Terry and Monaghan.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Miss Mary Dandridge Bunting, daughter of Mrs. O. S. Bunting, to Bernard H. Rawl, of Washington, D. C., was one of the most brilliant and beautiful social events of the season in Petersburg. The church was handsomely and artistically decorated and a large assemblage filled the auditorium. The ceremony was performed by the rector, the Rev. Edmund Pendleton Dredge, D. D. The wedding music was choral, with the marches from "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn, on the organ. The bride entered with and was given away by her brother, O. L. Bunting, of Providence, R. I. She was beautifully gowned in white, crepe meteeu embroidered with orchids. Her attendant as dame of honor was Mrs. Alexander D. Hamilton, and her bridesmaids were Miss Mary Goode Cole and Miss Emily Bannister Mason. The bridegroom's attendant as best man was David Hill Henry, of the Carolina. Miss Anne Spotswood Bunting, dauntless, attired, was the flower girl. The groomsmen were John Carroll, of Baltimore; Dr. Riggs, president of Clemson College, S. C.; George Mitchell, of Washington; W. P. Arrington, William M. Martin and P. G. Bunting, of Petersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Rawl left for the North on their bridal trip. The bride is a very charming and popular member of the society. Many outside guests of prominence were present.
